JOURNAL

Celebrating 10 successful years of practice, Managing Partner Amir M. Kahana, Esq. of Kahana & Feld P.C. (formally Kahana Law), is pleased to announce he has added as name partner Jason Daniel Feld, Esq., expanding client offerings to include insurance defense and bolstering its construction defect and real estate law practice. Feld brings 18 years of experience, with his practice focusing on defending homebuilders, contractors and developers in Arizona, Texas and California. He primarily chooses to represent smaller, family-owned and operated clients, providing the unique opportunity to also assist with overall best practices and risk prevention. In addition, Feld serves on several prominent insurance carrier panels, allowing him to cultivate valuable relationships with the builder and contractor community. A resident of Tustin Ranch, Feld received his juris doctor cum laude from Whittier Law School and a bachelor's degree from University of Houston.

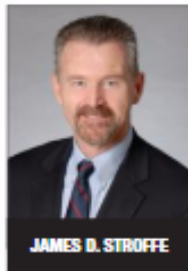

COMMUNITY news

■ Pamela Liosi, attorney at Traut Firm, has received the honor of being selected to receive the 2017 Angelo Palmieri Award for Civility. The award is given each year to the attorney who maintains the legal profession's highest tradition of excellence, professionalism, ethics and civility in the practice of law by the Robert A. Banyard Inn of Court.

■ Friedman Stroffe & Gerard, P.C., a leading transactional and litigation law firm based in Irvine, has once again been selected by the Orange County Business Journal for its annual list of the top law firms in Orange County.

The list is compiled by Orange County Business Journal staff through surveys distributed to and completed by local law firms. Over 1,000 law firms, comprising over 16,000 attorneys, operate in Orange County, so ranking in the Top 100 is prestigious.

"We're pleased to be recognized again by the Orange County Business Journal as one of the top law firms in Orange County," says James D. Stroffe, managing partner. "We represent a broad spectrum of domestic and foreign clients, from corporations listed on national and regional stock exchanges to family-owned businesses and individuals—and we thank all of them for their support, which has allowed FSG to achieve this recognition. At FSG, we understand that our job is to support our clients in achieving their objectives in an efficient and cost-effective manner; this award proves that our approach works."

■ Snell & Wilmer is pleased to announce that Mark Foster, counsel in the firm's Orange County office, has joined the board of directors of Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Orange County, a privately funded non-profit organization that serves severely abused, neglected and abandoned children through the recruitment, training and continued support of volunteers who advocate and mentor these children, representing their best interests in the courtroom and other settings. CASA of Orange County was founded in 1985, with major support from the Junior League of Orange County, and they annually serve approximately 750 of the children who move through our court system as a direct cause of abuse and neglect.

At Snell & Wilmer, Foster concentrates his practice primarily on the representation of institutional owners, operators and developers, as well as financial institutions and investors focused on equity investments, joint venture formations, acquisitions and dispositions, leasing, real estate-related lending, and debt restructuring, workouts and reorganizations. Foster has been a member of the Facilities Committee of The Pegasus School since 2011, the Board of Directors of Obria Medical Clinics since 2004 and the Board of Directors of Andrei Olenicoff Memorial Foundation since 2005.
